

THOMAS PARKER,

RAT-DESTROYER

To his Royal Highness the PRINCE of WALES;

Is now at the

THINKS necessary to inform the Nobility, Gentry, and others, that he takes RATS alive, or destroys them and MICE, with a Composition without any danger to the family, and that neither Cat nor Dog will eat it, (in a manner far superior to any that ever attempted that calling.)—He requires no cash till the employers have received benefit. And also, he sells the same infallible Composition in packets for destroying them, in any quantity, on reasonable terms; and after he has cleared the premises of any gentleman, he will then agree with him by the year.

Also, he surveys Land, and Maps it accurately; and (if desired) teaches Mensuration, Land-Surveying, Navigation, and Astronomy. Likewise, he cleans, turns, dyes, and dresses ladies and gentlemen's Hats, and binds them, also alters their crowns in the neatest manner to the present fashion.

Whoever pleases to honour him with their commands, may depend upon his performing every undertaking, to their satisfaction.

NEWMARKET, May 5th, 1791.

* * * The above person is of reputable parantage, was a capital farmer 14 years, and can now produce an unexceptionable character. He is thoroughly acquainted with the business of a land steward, and is ready to serve any Nobleman or Gentleman in that capacity, or in any other he is suitable for, (letters post paid,) directed to Thomas Parker, senior, (Rat-Destroyer) to be left at the George, Fenchurch Street, London, will be answered or waited upon.

AT his Carriage, at the above place, Ribbons, Gowns, Silks, &c. are dyed of different, and good colours. Also, China, Glass, &c. neatly mended. Likewise he will instruct any person, on reasonable terms, in any of the above Arts and Mysteries; or, he will give a premium to be instructed in any useful Art and Secret.